Cultural studies is an interdisciplinary field that examines the political dynamics of contemporary culture (including popular culture) and its historical foundations. Cultural studies researchers generally investigate how cultural practices relate to wider systems of power associated with, or operating through, social phenomena. These include ideology, class structures, national formations, ethnicity, sexual orientation, gender, and generation. Cultural studies combines a variety of politically engaged critical approaches drawn including semiotics, Marxism, feminist theory, ethnography, post-structuralism, post colonialism, social theory, political theory, history, philosophy, literary theory, media theory, film/video studies, communication studies, political economy, translation studies, museum studies and art history/criticism to study cultural phenomena in various societies and historical periods.

The teacher in charge was Ms. Roshin T Roy, Assistant Professor, Department of English. A total of 75 participants joined for the programme. The programme helped the participants understand the complexity of everyday life. They also internalized that cultural studies provide them with a range of tools to analyse how cultural practices and meanings are produced.
